The group exhibition Storie della fine dell'anno (Stories from the end of the year) brings together very different contributions, voices entirely personal and often contradictory, at a time of the year traditionally reserved for balance and new perspectives.

An exhibition that is not intended to be exhaustive, nor even to provide forecasts for a future that could not be more uncertain; a show to record stories.

They are stories told by different artists using different techniques, from drawing to photography, from graphics to painting; they are contemporary voices or memories from the past, thoughts, visions and dreams.
